How I Got Attracted to Coding:-

I started my coding or attracted to coding by Hacking phones only so it is a short experience/story of mine so when i was in 8th standard there was my friend who knew the basic coding by learning through youtube so he suggested me a hacking course, so at that time no one taught hacking or gave a huge tutorial on "How to hack mobile phones" and also YouTube ignores all the small content creators, so on the channel that my friend recommended I got to learn something about Hacking phones using IP address.

There is some illegal html app which needs rooted devices to start the process of hacking, To hack our friends mobile we just had to take their phone and copy their IP address, Then after hacking we played pranks on them by recording their screen, taking screen shots and texting people

How Hacking can Punish You:-

At that time we didn't know hacking was illegal but at 9th standard we came to know about the IT act

So as punishment we can have 3 years of imprisonment and 5 lakh fine if we get caught hacking someone's personal things without asking for permission, So after learning about this punishment, I stopped doing that and now I don't remember the app properly.

Now what I come to know is in some virtual online websites. They provide your IP address by inspecting in the websites, so what hackers do is they copy your IP address and hack your source code and login to your Gmail ID and other stuff but the main thing is,

They can use you as a proxy for their dark stuff

It is basically known as sock5 it is an abbreviation for using your ip for doing carding or ddosing your computer service provider or website

How to stay safe from that stuff is by using vpn or tor browser

Once Nasa had sent a satellite to Venus, but the satellite missed its mark by a few thousands of km's and went completely off course. They spent 2 years looking at and evaluating the code and found that they had not yet used an (-) Hyphen. The mistake named as Most expensive Hyphen. The computer did exactly what it was told to, the computer did nothing wrong, technically speaking it was never aiming for Venus to begin with.
